HOW BEAUTIFUL UPON THE MOUNTAINS

Joseph inherited many fine qualities from his parents, their Scotch thrift, ambition and a bit of Irish wit as well. He loved to entertain his family with stories of his early life, especially of his experiences as a soldier in the Black Hawk Indian War.

Mary was a patient, kind, humble woman and was loved by all. Hard work and many responsibilities were her daily companions. She was very devoted to the Gospel and had a burning testimony as evidence of her faith.

Though Mary and Joseph have long since died, their children love and revere their memories.

WILLIAM AND AGNES ROBERTSON MCGHIE

Before William McGhie came to Utah from Ayrshire, Scotland, in the year 1863, with Agnes Robertson Ritchie, his mother-in-law and John Ritchie, his brother-in-law, he was married to Agnes Ritchie, James Ritchie's father's sister. They had two children who died very young. The mother died also during a severe epidemic.

Shortly after they arrived here William McGhie married his mother-in-law, Agnes Robertson Ritchie. James Ritchie of Charleston, who wrote what he knew of the McGhie family, could find no birth dates or much about the McGhie family.

However in the fall of 1896, when Buysville was separated from Charleston, William McGhie was appointed the presiding Elder by Bishop Nymphus C. Murdock of Charleston. He was a second lieutenant in Ira N. Jacob's Infantry company in the Indian Wars.

In 1879 Agnes McGee was counselor to the president of the Charleston Relief Society and by December 13, 1894, before Buysville Branch was organized, Agnes McGhie was president of the Relief Society, with Sarah A. Nelson as first counselor and Anna C. Wahlquist as second counselor.

The McGhie's lived on a small farm west of the present Wasatch company gravel pit.

Marie Anderson often told of walking from her home to the McGhie home to attend Primary. One time she remembered vividly was one fall, when Sister McGhie gave her a nice ripe tomato to eat on her way home. She said she tasted it, but one bite was enough, so she offered it to her dog, but he wouldn't have any of it either.

Agnes McGhie did much nursing among the sick, older folks report.

They were both very faithful Church workers.

Both died at Daniel and are buried on James Ritchie's father's lot in Charleston.
